MEDICINAL.

BEGINNING EARLY is half the battle. Don't wait for your cough to run into consumption. There's always danger of it. The germs or seeds of this disease are all around you. All that they want is an inactive liver and the scrofulous condition that follows it, to develop them.

You need Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, now, to thoroughly purify your blood, build up sound, firm, honest flesh, and make every weak spot strong. It's a certain remedy for the earlier stages of consumption.

Campbell, Ohio.

Dr. R. V. PIERCE: Dear Sir—Two of our physicians pronounced my case consumption. I spent nearly $50, and was no better. I bought your "Golden Medical Discovery," and after taking it, I can now do all my work on the farm, although I had not been able to work for several years. I give you my thanks.

Truly, your friend,
William Dulaney

THEIR SECOND HONEYMOON.

Nelson Holden, of Troup county, Ga., joined the First regiment from that State when the war broke out. He left behind a young and very beautiful wife, having been married only a few months. Holden was a good soldier, and only once during the war did he obtain a furlough and visit his wife.

He was at home for a short time during the summer of 1863, and soon after he returned to the war he was taken prisoner. Before Holden had an opportunity of writing to his wife after he was captured he was taken ill with a slow malarial fever. When captured Holden had become separated from his company and his comrades thought he had been killed.

Mrs. Holden's first notice of the supposed death of her husband was contained in some resolutions passed by his company, a copy of which was forwarded to the family. Without making any investigation, Mrs. Holden mourning her husband as dead, while he was lingering between life and death in a northern prison. It was many months before he fully recovered from the effects of the terrible fever.

Holden was not released until the close of the war, and weak from his long illness, and penniless, he started to make his way to the little home in Georgia. He was compelled to seek employment several times to earn money to continue his journey, and it was late in the autumn of 1865 when Holden came in sight of his little home.

He was a wreck of his former self and fully realized that it would be difficult for his own wife to recognize him. Arriving at the home he had left more than two years before Holden found it occupied by strangers. Without disclosing his identity he asked where Mrs.
Holden was.

"Oh, she married Chris Jones and moved away last spring," was the answer received.

Holden was prostrated by the shock of the startling intelligence, but, without giving his name, he turned and walked slowly away from the little home where the happiest hours of his life had been passed. He made no effort to find his wife but continued his journey to Clay county, Ala.

Holden worked a while as a farm laborer and saved enough money to purchase a small farm of his own. In time the old love was forgotten, and he married again. Holden prospered, and after a few years owned one of the best farms in the county. Several children were born, and it was not long until his first marriage appeared like a dream. About four years ago Mrs.
Holden No. 2 died, leaving five children. About a year ago after the death of his wife Mr. Holden told a portion of his farm to a man named Jones, from Georgia. Mr. Jones built a house and moved his family to Alabama. Soon the two became good friends, but Mr. Holden had never been to the house of his neighbor and had never seen his wife.

Less than a year ago Mr. Jones died.
His neighbor, Mr. Holden, of course attended the funeral and caused no little excitement by going off in a dead faint when introduced to the weeping widow of the dead man. That was not the time or place for explanations, and the next day after the funeral Mr. Holden called on his wife and this time the recognition was mutual.

Mrs. Jones's period of mourning will expire in a few days, and then she will be quietly married to the husband of her youth. She is still a beautiful woman and has three children living, and Mr. Holden has five. Only a few of their intimate friends know the secret of their former marriage.—*Griffin

There is no medicine so often needed in every home and so admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is intended, as Chamberlain's Pain Balm.

Hardly a week passes but some member of the family has need of it. A toothache or headache may be cured by it. A touch of rheumatism or neuralgia quieted. The severe pain of a burn or scald promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which insures a cure in about one-third of the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate treatment before the parts become swollen, which can only be done when Pain Balm is kept at hand. A sore throat may be cured before it becomes serious. A troublesome corn may be removed by applying it twice a day for a week or two. A lame back may be cured and several days of valuable time saved or pain in the side or chest relieved without paying a doctor's bill. Procure a 50 cent bottle at once and you will never regret it. For sale by L. Stabler & Co.

"For a long time I had a terrible
